

Little Donnie (The Ten Inch Terror)

Synopsis option 1:

An animated Donald Trump doll goes on a rampage in this dark parody of the 1975 made-for-TV horror film, Trilogy of Terror starring Karen Black. In the original movie, Black plays the victim of a knife-wielding Zuni fetish doll that comes to life and terrorizes her. In Little Donnie, the doll is replaced with a stop-motion, rhetoric-spouting Donald Trump doll, and Karen Black is now a modern representation of the “every woman” in the age of Trump.

Synopsis option 2:

Little Donnie is a dark parody of the 1975 made-for-TV horror film, Trilogy of Terror starring Karen Black. In the original movie, Black plays the victim of a knife-wielding Zuni fetish doll that comes to life and terrorizes her. In Little Donnie, the Indian doll is replaced with an animated rhetoric-spouting Donald Trump doll, thereby making the story a metaphor for the state of things in America. The Karen Black character now becomes a modern representation of the “every woman” amid the Trump dynasty where women’s rights are in danger of backsliding.

One line synopsis:

A '70s horror film is twisted into a timely parody involving a diminutive Donald Trump.

Please note: This film is a parody of the 1975 live-action horror film Trilogy of Terror and therefore falls into fair use provisions regarding copyright law and parody. For our version we have replaced all of the original shots of the Zuni fetish doll with stop motion animation of our Donald Trump puppet. Everything in the audio track is new, including the voices and music. The script is completely new. (Animation starts at 00:43 seconds in.)